Never mind that noise today. Remember that you were young yourself once and signs of irritation will evidence your advancing years.

Holt, the man who attempted the life of J. P. Morgan, is a crank and there is nothing especially significant about his attack. It was not the result of a conspiracy nor does it represent any special public sentiment. No laws can be enacted or rules laid down which will give protection from the "crank" or "fanatic" for their actions are prompted by diseased minds. Four presidents of the United States have been attacked by men of this class and others in positions of prominence have been thus assailed. Yet vigilance is the only protection from them.

When Fred Upham of Chicago recently told the Hamilton club that he had the definite promise of more than a majority of the Republican National committee that the next national convention of the party would be held in Chicago he started an unwelcome message to Thomas Niedringhaus, national committeeman from Missouri. Now Mr. Niedringhaus has written letters to all other committeemen asking them if it is true that a majority have expressed a preference for Chicago. If the matter has really been settled the Missourian wants to stop the effort being made in St. Louis to raise a big sum to get the convention there.

A new York soprano who believes that one of the inalienable rights of citizenship in this country is to sing when the spirit prompts is in trouble. One night recently as she played and sang the music so disturbed a sleeper in an adjoining apartment that he jumped from his bed and pounded on the wall. The musician resented the insult with a revolver shot and the bullet pierced the great toe of the "sleeper's" wife. An arrest and a very interesting trial followed but even the plea of "eccentricity" which has helped out many an artist did not relieve the enraged soprano, in this case, from a fine of $500.

Go. Dunne in approving the bill which raises the salary of legislators from $2000 a year to $3500 says that his action was prompted only by a belief that the law will redound to the public good. The governor asserts that the legitimate campaign expenses of the average member are from $750 to $1000 and that the additional expense incurred by railroad fare to and from Springfield and living expense while in the Capital City make it so that most legislators have only $250 to $500 a year for their services.

There is some point to the governor's contentions yet the increase in salary is not likely to meet with popular approval. Each succeeding legislature spends so much time in organizing and then works only about half of each week that the biennial sessions are much longer than would otherwise happen. Then it is true that if campaign expenses are heavy, the candidate unwilling to make the sacrifice and knowing about this expense in advance, is not required to run for office.

Kansas City has just voted bonds to the amount of $4,500,000 for public improvements and there is great rejoicing among all elements of the people over the result. Among the improvements will be a general hospital to cost $125,000; municipal farm, $125,000; developments and extension of the public sewer system, $400,000; bridges and viaducts, $450,000; traffic approaches to the great union station just completed, $700,000; garbage disposal, $300,000, and other sums for traffic ways and subways amounting to many hundreds of thousands. The scheme contemplates a great advance step for the city and promises for some time to come to solve the employment problem as it will give work to thousands of wage earners, including skilled mechanics and other grades of labor.

Big Mobile Guns.

Secretary Garrison, probably one of the ablest members of the Cabinet, has learned a lesson from the European war, and, without availing himself of the newspapers, has undertaken a great reform in the artillery. He is planning the construction of mobile carriages for the 10 and 12 inch mortars now in possession of the Coast Artillery and for the training of the soldiers in their use. This country has a number of these powerful mortars, but they are all mounted on immobile carriages and would be available only in the forts where they are mounted. Under the new plan many of these will be so mounted that they could be hauled to any place an enemy might attack or seek to land, and fired from trenches constructed on the spot. Moreover, Mr. Garrison has ordered extensive drills with such field artillery as the army now possesses. Congress has failed to provide anything like an adequate amount of ammunition, but such as it has provided will be used to train the men to hit what they shoot at.

The National Birthday.

The anniversary of the founding of American liberty holds a greater degree of interest this Fourth of July than for many years past. Since Saturday, a quiet but deep-seated feeling has been manifested throughout the land. All thinking Americans who see in their newspapers the horrible accounts of the European catastrophe reflect on an occasion like this. Genuine patriotism is having its manifestations today everywhere in the land. One will but need to look into the faces of Americans today to see how far the American spirit of liberty.

The celebration of the holiday began on Saturday, continued on Sunday, and reaches its climax today. The center of the public celebration today is at Independence Square, in Philadelphia, where leading Americans are to speak. It is there that the Liberty Bell is being prepared for its long trip across the continent.

That the celebration this year will result in far less accidents to the young patriots is predicted from every section of the country. Last year there were only three fatalities from lock-jaw, and the U. S. Health Bureau believes it possible to wipe out even this few fatal cases of tetanus. When one stops to think that only 12 years ago there were 417 Fourth of July victims of tetanus, the growth of the idea for same and safe celebrating is marked. The total casualties on the glorious day are now less than one-fourth of what they were five or six years ago.

Many cities will hold gatherings at noon today for the singing of the "Star Spangled Banner". Many others will welcome the foreign-born citizens at public receptions, while cities and towns will conduct their own celebrations in honor of the day.

Sport in all its branches is offered throughout the country. Every attraction that will bring the people into the great out-of-doors is on the program. The two-day rest from cares and labors for the majority of Americans has sufficed as a breathing spell for the busy nation, where recuperation of health, strength and patriotism spells lasting benefit.

A Compensation Act Finding.

The fact that two hearings were held in Jacksonville recently in accordance with the provisions of the workmen's compensation act gives some interest to a Michigan case recently decided. The question involved was as to whether compensation could be collected on account of injuries arising "out of" and "in the course of" employment. The West Review of interesting cases gives these facts:

"Whether one may recover under the workmen's compensation act for injuries sustained by falling upon an icy sidewalk is decided in the case of Hopkins vs. Michigan Sugar company, 150 Northwestern Reporter, 325. The Michigan state industrial board awarded Mrs. J. C. Hopkins of Saginaw compensation for the accidental death of her husband as employee of the Michigan Sugar company, for which he was traveling inspector. The defendant company operated six plants, located at six different towns, and it was the business of the deceased to inspect these various plants at various times. The main office of the defendant company being at Saginaw and deceased's home also being at Saginaw. On Feb. 1, 1913, the day of the alleged accident, deceased was returning from the plants to his home in Saginaw and, as the evidence discloses, while he was crossing a street to catch a street car he slipped and fell upon an icy spot on the sidewalk and received the injury which eventually caused his death.

"The supreme court of Michigan says that such findings fail to sustain the conclusion of law by the board that such accident was naturally or peculiarly incidental to and arose out of decedent's employment; that to justify an award under this act it must be shown that the employee received a personal injury arising out of and in the course of his employment; that slipping upon snow-covered ice and falling while walking or running is not even what is known as peculiarly a 'street risk,' neither is it a recognized extra hazard of travel or particularly incidental to the employment of those who are called upon to make journeys between towns on business missions; that this unfortunate accident resulted from a risk common to all and which arose from no special exposure to dangers of the road from travel and traffic upon it. It was not a hazard peculiarly incidental to or connected with the deceased's employment, and therefore is not shown to have a causal connection with it or to have arisen out of it."

FIFTEENTH ANNIVERSARY OF GRAND REVIEW OF UNION ARMY

Half Century Has Passed Since Thrilling Pageant Was Held in Washington.

Washington, D. C., July 4.—Fifty years ago the victorious Union armies, fresh from the battlefields of the civil war and the surrender at Appomattox, marched down Pennsylvania avenue in Washington.

It was a grand review of the war-scarred legions of Grant and Sherman, of Meade and Sheridan, and the other famous commanders whose "boys in blue" had preserved the Union. President Johnson and General Grant were in the reviewing stand as the veterans swung proudly past to the exciting music of their bands, while the battle flags that had flown on a hundred bloody fields waved over the triumphant host.

This thrilling pageant, of national interest, will be reproduced as far as possible during the forty-ninth annual encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic, which will be held in Washington, September 27 to October 3, next, according to the announcement made here today.

It will be the fiftieth anniversary of the Grand Review. Thousands of the same veterans who marched in that review a half century ago uniformed in the Union blue, will again keep step to martial music down Pennsylvania avenue, and pass in parade before President Wilson and members of his cabinet. It will be the last time the veterans will march in Washington, and the last time that hundreds of them will ever again attend an encampment, as the aged men are fast passing away.

The Grand Army, which survived four years of campaigns and never surrendered, will soon have to lower its standards, defeated by Time, the only enemy able to vanquish the veterans. Because of the increasing death rate and the feebleness of the survivors of the great war it is probable that the Grand Army will never again hold a great encampment after the Washington event. As this gathering is the last in which many of them will participate and as the anniversary of the Grand Review, is of such historic significance to them and the country, they will make great efforts to be in Washington in September. The encampment will therefore be the largest and most successful ever held by the organization.

Washington is making elaborate preparations to receive the veterans, and the Nation's capital will be in fête during the week that the famous soldiers are within her gates.

Government officials and the people of the Capital are a unit in extending invitations, through the press of the country, to the nation to visit Washington during G. A. R. week. Plans are being perfected to make the encampment and the Grand Review an event of national importance.

An elaborate program of entertainment for the veterans and citizens who visit the capital at that time is being prepared. The War Department and the Navy Department are co-operating in the program.

The former has arranged for exhibition drills of U. S. troops, cavalry, artillery and infantry, at Fort Myer, which is a suburb of Washington. Some of the best soldiers in the Army are stationed at Fort Myer, particularly the cavalry, which numbers among the enlisted men many of the greatest riders in the world. Crack batteries of light artillery are also stationed at Fort Myer. Aeroplane exhibitions are to be given by the Signal Corps. The Wright brothers demonstrated in public the first aeroplane at Fort Myer.

The Navy Department will have a fleet of torpedo boat destroyers, submarines, gunboats, and a cruiser detached from the Atlantic fleet and sent up the Potomac river to Washington, where the ships will remain during the encampment. A big feature will be camp fires, at which will be held reunions of the various corps of the Union armies.

Just below Washington, on the Potomac, is located Indian Head proving ground, where big guns for the navy or fortifications are tested before being placed on battle ships or in our coast defenses. The veterans and visitors will have an opportunity to see the operations at Indian Head, as well as scores of other places of interest in or around Washington.

During encampment week opportunity will be afforded the veterans to revisit Bull Run, Antietam, Appomattox, and other celebrated battlefields.

LATONIA CLOSING GREAT SEASON

Danville, Ky., July 5.—The Independence Handicap, to be run this afternoon at the Latonia track, will bring to a close the most successful season ever known at the local track. The big meet opened on June 8, and the added money for the special events totaled $27,500. A choice field is entered in today's final event and the race will be closely drawn.

SUPREME COURT TO PASS ON SEGREGATION

Louisville, Ky., July 5.—An appeal will be made to the United States supreme court from the Court of Appeals in the segregation case in Louisville. The city ordinance segregating the negroes will be first to be passed upon by the highest court in the land. The property owners in the districts affected by the new ordinance are contesting its legality.

MAN BADLY CUT WHEN TWO ENGAGED IN QUARREL

John Norton Received Severe Injuries in Affray Which Took Place on East Washington Street.

John Norton, colored, residing at 612 South West street, was badly cut about the head and face in a fight which occurred on East Washington street about 7 o'clock Sunday evening. It is said that Charles Britton, white, was his assailant. Norton was taken to the office of Dr. W. P. Duncan where his injuries were given attention. Norton had a bad cut over the right eye, one on the forehead, his right ear was nearly severed from the head and he had a cut about four inches long in the back of the head. He bled profusely but it is not probable that his injuries are serious.

It is not known what caused the trouble. Some one called the police but when they arrived on the scene all of the parties implicated had disappeared. Norton is a small man and only has one arm, the other having been cut off about the elbow. He is a horse trainer and Britton is a carpenter by trade. Inquiry at the police station Sunday night revealed the fact that no arrest had been made in connection with the cutting. It is probable that a warrant may be sworn out by Norton for Britton today.

There was a large gathering of relatives and friends to pay last tribute of respect to the memory of the deceased. Over fifty relatives were in attendance at the funeral.

There were many beautiful floral offerings and these were cared for by Miss Nellie Anderson, Miss Katie Engel, Miss Marie McPherson and Mrs. Roy Leach.

Interment was in Calvary cemetery and the bearers were J. W. Woods, J. A. Cain, W. F. Widmayer, Edward White, Harry Norris and W. H. Anderson.

Rule.

The funeral of Miss Juniata Elizabeth Rule took place at the home of Mr. Rule's sister, Mrs. J. W. Jackson, 606 South Diamond Street, yesterday afternoon in the presence of a large audience which overflowed out of the house into the yard. The young lady was nineteen years of age and her death was a sad blow to the family. It was hastened by hard study while a pupil in the high school from which she graduated last year and had hoped to become a successful teacher.

Rev. R. O. Post, D. D., pastor of the Congregational church in which the young lady was baptized by Rev. P. S. Hayden years ago, had charge. He read the 23rd psalm and a part of the 14th chapter of John. He dwelt on the injunction of the Master to the disciples not to let their hearts be troubled. He did not minimize the reality of death nor the shrinking from it which even the Lord Himself experienced but He too gave the victory over it and opened the door to the eternal mansions above. He spoke tenderly of the manner in which the young lady had been brought back to her former home; of her baptism by Dr. Hayden years ago, and of the good teaching she had enjoyed from Miss Clara Nolte.

Accompanied in able manner by Miss Ruth Irving Miss Mable Matthews most beautifully sang at the beginning, "Face the Face" and at the close "Sometime We'll Understand."

There was a large number of floral offerings and these were in charge of Misses Aileen Sharp, Grace Edie, Jean Jenkinson and Bertha and Ethel Lucas.

Interment was in Diamond Grove cemetery and the bearers were: Frank Merrill, Allan Taylor, Joseph Lucas, Emmett Miller, Harold Gay and Adolph Bosler.

Smith.

The funeral of Mrs. Henry Smith was conducted from the Union Baptist church Sunday morning at 11 o'clock, in charge of Rev. A. A. Curry. Music was furnished by Misses Grace Hill, Lola Austin, Lou Duncan and Hattie Armstrong. Miss Grace Armstrong was pianist. The flowers were cared for by Mrs. Charles Criswell, Mrs. Robert Shirley and Mrs. Newton Violett.

Burial was made in Pisgah cemetery and the bearers were Messrs. James R. Seymour, Fred Travers, John Samples, William Stewart, Wilbur Cooper and Portlan Miller.

CLUBS GATHERING INTO GROUPS FOR FINISH

FIRST FOUR NATIONAL LEAGUE TEAMS IN CLOSE RACE.

Three Clubs are in Line for the Honors in the American—St. Louis and Kansas City Fight for Leadership in Federal.

New York, July 4.—With the half way marks of the baseball season close at hand the clubs in the major leagues of organized baseball are gathering into well defined groups for the drive to the finish. Should the teams continue playing during the second half of the race approximately as they have since the first any one of the four clubs in the National League has an excellent chance for the flag, while in the American three teams are in line for the honors.

National Teams Close.

In the senior organization the Chicago, Philadelphia, St. Louis and Pittsburgh clubs are so closely pounced that fifty points will cover close to covering the span between first and fourth.

Separated sharply from the group come Brooklyn, Boston, New York and Cincinnati teams, still nearer together, as twenty points recently has been sufficient to bridge the gap between fifth and eighth place clubs. The Chicago leaders have been slipping back of late while Philadelphia has been gaining and St. Louis and Pittsburgh about holding their own. In the second division the long looked for brace of the Bostonians has not been in evidence. Instead the club was badly mauled recently by the New Yorks who in turn were so badly treated by the Brooklynians as to lose four straight games to Robinson's men. The Giants pitching staff is proving so unreliable as a whole the team is losing often than it is winning. The veteran Mathewson seems to be regaining form but even he was bested by Jack Coombs, one of his old time world series rivals in a pitching duel Friday.

Red Sox and Tigers Doing Better.

Both the Red Sox and the Tigers are doing better in the American league, the latter in present series having given Clarence Rowland's pacemakers all they could take care of incidentally causing Urban Faber his fourth defeat of the season, leaving his record at thirteen games won. Before that the White Sox had cleared with St. Louis taking four games straight. In general Chicagoans, whether from the punch added to the team's work through the acquisition of Eddie Collins, or because of Manager Rowland's generalship, or by reason of a combination of these and other factors, are playing a game not to be matched at present in either league.

The Federal League clubs stood at the close of the week just as they did a week before, with St. Louis and Kansas City fighting for the leadership, the latter having had slightly the better of it. Chicago and Pittsburgh both winning with considerable regularity pulled up rapidly on the other two first division clubs. In the other division the Buffalo team alone gained ground, Newark doing worse than break even and Brooklyn and Baltimore dropping rapidly.

MR. WOOD WRITES ABOUT CATTLE FED AT STOCK YARDS.

As many of your readers are interested in the cattle that I fed in the National Stock Yards in East St. Louis, will say the flies bothered the cattle the last three weeks so we closed the test. They were only holding their own the last two weeks for the flies simply came in swarms. I never saw the like in my life. The first sixty days I made a record of four pounds per day, on one-fifth of a bushel corn. The first thirty days I fed one pound of bran to each steer per day and it improved their gain considerably, but many wanted me to test the cattle on crushed corn and cob, so I did not feed any bran the last forty days.

I find if yellow corn is fed, it pays to feed a little bran, as the corn is too oily if cooked, but if white corn is used it is not necessary to use bran but I think it will pay.

As to my hog trough as shown in another place, it is the best trough I ever fed a hog in. They do not waste their feed and a hog will not put his feet in the trough, so it is always clean, and feed fed clean is much healthier.

I stand ready to prove that corn softened in my grain softener will double the grain in value, that is one-fourth corn will put on as good gain on a steer as one-half bushel fed dry, any way you wish to feed it. If it is made soft and digestible, the cattle will gain faster, and the syrup of the corn will keep up the common gain made on hogs if fed as a slop in my troughs as shown. I will furnish one of my grain softeners and a set of troughs, that will feed 40 to 100 cattle, and all I ask is what it saves over any other way of feeding, until parties are satisfied it will do all I claim.

Hoping the stock feeders of this county will let me prove my claims to them if any are doubting, I remain Yours for producing more beef and pork.

Charles Wood.

"MORNING GLANCES" (By Gosh)

Minneapolis and St. Paul split a double header Sunday. The first game resulted 4 to 3 in favor of Minneapolis while the second went to St. Paul by a score of 6 to 4.

The Cubs beat the Pirates by a score of 8 to 5. The Cubs made twelve hits, the Pirates using McQuillan and Cooper. Fisher who plays short for the Cubs got two two baggers.

The Pirates are using Baird at the top of their batting list, having him in third place. He got a hit yesterday, stole a base and also made one of the Pirates' runs.

Jimmy Lavender relieved Cheney Sunday and only allowed the Pirates one hit in five innings. He took the rubber at a critical time as Cheney retired in the fifth with no one out.

The Tigers again trimmed the White Sox Sunday afternoon by a score of 8 to 7. The game went ten innings. The Tigers got fifteen hits to nine for the Sox. They made four errors to two for the Sox. This probably accounts for the closeness of the score.

The day of miracles has arrived. On Sunday the lowly Reds defeated the Cardinals a double header. The score in the first game was 1 to 0, and in the second, 3 to 2. It surely must have been a hard jolt for the Cardinals who have been up fighting for the lead.

In the Federal League the Whales trimmed the Stogies by a score of 5 to 4. Each team made thirteen hits.

Kansas City again demonstrated that she has a classy team by beating the Stogies by a score of 14 to 8. The Kawfeds made seventeen hits while St. Louis only got eight.

In the American Association Milwaukee beat Kansas City a double header, the scores being 6 to 2 and 3 to 2.

Rowland made a desperate effort to win at Detroit. He sent Faber in to relieve Wolfgang who had relieved Scott. In the tenth Faber purposely passed Bush and then could not put the ball over for Baker who walked on four wide ones and forced Cobb in with the winning run.

Schalk, Eddie Collins and Roth did not get a safety yesterday. They don't seem to hit against the Tiger pitchers.

The first five batters on the Tigers' list got thirteen of their fifteen hits. That is some hitting combination. Cobb and Crawford got six of the thirteen between them and made three of the Tigers runs.

Grover Lowdermilk pitched a one hit game against Cleveland Sunday, winning 2 to 0. The only hit made was a triple by Smith in the fourth with two out.

The New York Yanks and the New York Giants played an exhibition game at the Polo grounds Sunday for charity. The Giants won by a score of 5 to 3. Wild Bill Donovan who used to be a star with the Detroit Tigers and who is now manager of Yanks pitched five innings for his team. He snowed old time form while on the mound and then gave way to Cottrell.

In the first game between the Cardinals and the Reds the pitching of Dale backed by sensational fielding was responsible for the Reds win.

Ty Cobb is running away in the American league this year. For the past two years it looked like Cobb might be slowing up on the bases. However, this was a mistake. This year Cobb, in addition to hitting .397, is far and away in the lead in stolen bases. In the last averages compiled he has a total of 51 stolen bases. His nearest competitor, Eddie Collins, of the White Sox, has only amassed 22. Milan of Washington, who a few years ago was setting the American league on fire with his base stealing, has at this time but ten stolen bases to his credit.

Jake Daubert of Brooklyn is leading the National league in hitting. J. Smith of the Braves is the place man. Smith is a valuable man for the Braves this year and if the other members of the team were playing as near to their last year's form as Smith the Braves would be farther up in the race. Larry Doyle so far this season is hitting better than he has for several years. Doyle is hitting at a .398 clip and bids fair to keep up his gait.

Lee Magee, the old Central association player now managing Brooklyn, is still leading the Federal league with the stick. While Quinn of Baltimore is on top, he has only played nineteen games, while Magee has played 54 games, thus making him the real leader. Magee also is second in base stealing. Kauff, also a Brooklyn player, belays his only leader. Plack of Chicago is batting fifth. He was with the Peoria team in the Three Eye league two years ago.

FUNERAL NOTICE.

The remains of Roy Matthews of Chicago arrived here last night and were taken to the undertaking parlors of W. W. Gilham, where funeral services will be held Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock. Interment will be made in Antioch cemetery.

BOARD OF HEALTH RULES HAVE SHOWN RESULTS

Scarlet Fever Situation at Joliet Has Greatly Improved.

Springfield, Ill., July 3.—The rigid quarantine enforced at Joliet by the state board of health in combating a serious threatened epidemic of scarlet fever has justified itself, by the results attained, according to Secretary Drake of the State Board of Health.

A summary of new cases reported in Joliet showed that at the close of the week ending May 22, the day before the state assumed control of the situation there, at the request of the local authorities, 34 new cases of fever had been reported. The next week there were four cases less. It was found necessary to close the schools, churches, moving picture theatres and other places of public gathering to all children under sixteen years of age.

The result was highly satisfactory of the authorities and townspeople. There was a gradual diminution of new cases until in the week ending June 26 but one new case was reported. The battle was not won without difficulty, however, for despite splendid cooperation from the educational forces, the police, business men's organization, the local press and the medical profession, Dr. Crawford, inspector of the state board of health in charge at Joliet found it necessary to cause the arrest of some of the most prominent citizens of the city for quarantine violations.

"That the extraordinary measures employed were fully justified," says the report issued by the state board of health, "is amply proven by the results attained and the tabulation of new cases reported each week shows how rapidly the disease subsided when contact with infection bearers was reduced to the minimum."

"This experience has proved costly to Joliet business interests, the loss sustained being amply sufficient to maintain a well organized health department for many years. It should be a lesson to every other city in Illinois."

More or less well meaning citizens sometimes frighten the officials of the board of health with letters telling of places where the pestilence exists. Investigation generally shows the report was exaggerated. The letter which follows is a good example:

"State Board of Health.

"Dear Sir:

"I, of ———, Ill., the baker has his place in an awful condition."

"He has pigs to sleep under the flour bin and has his pigs by the flour bin and has chickens sitting in the flour bin."

"When they sweep the baker shop they let the dust fly on the baked things. They have lots of flies there. They have big rats in the flour bin."

"Their children is awful dirty and they go into the baker shop and get into the candy cases and bite of pieces of candy and they put it back again."

"When they know the inspector should visit them they hurry and clean up a little but if anybody should come and visit them now they would get sick and walk away."

"Where they roll there dough upon the children walk upon it and there dog licks the flour off and rolls upon it."

"Come and prove it for yourself. Very truly,

The inspectors who were rushed to this scene found a few minor violations, but nothing half as bad as pictured in the letter."

EUROPEAN WAR NOTES

Rome, July 4, via Paris.—A despatch from the Island of Corfu to the Corriere d'Italia says the Italian minister at Durazzo is reported to have left for Rome to confer with his government on the situation in Albania, Durazzo having been occupied by two Serbian regiments.

Durazzo is an Albanian sea port on the Adriatic, 153 miles south of Scutari.

Paris, July 4.—The following official communication was issued by the war office tonight:

"There has been quite spirited artillery actions in Belgium in the region of Nieuport and on the Steenstraete-Hetsas front, as well as in the sector to the north of Arras. On the right bank of the Aisne, in the neighborhood of Paissy, mining operations continue."

"In the Argonne engagements with hand grenades and torpedoes occurred, but no infantry action."

"On the heights of the Meuse and in the Vosges there has been merely cannonading."

Paris, July 4.—German troops in close formation last night attacked the French forces defending the Angres-Abblan road north of Arras, but were dispersed after suffering heavy losses according to the French official statement issued today. A German battalion the statement adds attempted to storm the village of Fey, five miles west of Pont-A-Mousson and the Moselle river but was forced to retire after reaching the French wire entanglements. The text of the statement follows:

"In the region north of Arras the enemy last night attacked in close formation our positions along the hollow road from Angres to Abblan, which is on the highway running between Aix-Reulette and Souchez. Our assailants were dispersed and driven back by the firing of the French barricade and from our machine guns and they suffered heavy losses."

But no man e'er confesses that he has got enough; while life lasts he caresses his pile of yellow stuff. TIGERS CAPTURE TEN INNING GAME FROM SOX DETROIT'S HEAVY HITTERS KNOCK SCOTT OFF MOUND.

Chicago Ties Score in Eighth—Faber Passes Baker With Two Out and Bases Full in Tenth, Forcing in Cobb With Winning Run.

Detroit, Mich., July 4.—Detroit defeated Chicago in the tenth inning, giving the local team three out of four games. Detroit's heavy hitters knocked Scott out of the box in five innings and secured a lead of six runs. Steen, who had been pitching good ball, became wild in the eighth and his support weakened, enabling Chicago to tie the score. Coveleskie then relieved Steen and Wolfgang, who had relieved Scott for two innings, gave way to Faber. With two out in the tenth and Cobb and Crawford on bases, Faber purposely passed Bush, filling the bases, to get at Baker. Then he walked Baker on four pitched balls, forcing in Cobb with the winning run. Score: Chicago, AB, R, H, P, A, E. Felsch, cf. 5 1 2 0 0 0 Weaver, ss. 5 0 1 3 2 0 E. St. Louis, July 4.—Lowdermilk shut out Cleveland in a one-hit game in which both teams played errorless ball.

Smith robbed the St. Louis pitcher of a no-hit game by a triple in the fourth, but as two men were out and Lowdermilk struck Wambach out immediately after, Smith's effort was futile.

WHAT MIGHT HAVE BEEN.

Johnny McGraw as manager and Connie Mack as catcher. What sort of combination would that have made? The best in the business, say you, and you would be about right. Of course, such would hardly be the case at this day and date, when both men are well along in years. But there was a time when any club with those two in the lineup would have been considered a world-beater. And what would you say if we should tell you that this very combination might once have worn a Jacksonville uniform? Such is the fact, however. To go into details: "Way back in 1892 Jack-sonville was getting her first attack of baseball. We broke into the first Illinois-Iowa league at that time. When the directors organized they began to cast about for a manager. Letters from would-be leaders began to pour in and in the batch was one from Tampa, Fla. The writer said that he had a team already signed up and was ready and willing to bring it to Jacksonville, he himself to act as manager. Among those named as members were the now mighty Connie Mack, who was down as catcher, and the no less mighty Jawn McGraw, third base. The directors made a quick jump and snatched up the proposition, didn't they? Well, it was in the wrong direction. Al Dawson, the man who wanted the job of managing the team and bringing with him two great stars, was bid to wait awhile. The result was that a fellow named Jack Pettiford, from St. Louis, got the ear of the directors and convinced them that he, and not Lawson, was the man they wanted. They evidently let him have his way, as he was signed, and thus Jacksonville missed the chance of having two men in Jacksonville uniforms who subsequently made and are still making baseball history. By just such narrow margins as the above is many a chance missed. It was Mr. Whittier, we believe, who penned something about "It might have been" being absolutely the last words when it comes to being sorry.

NO ACTION REGARDING OLYMPIC GAMES TODAY

PRESIDENT OF COMMITTEE MAKES ANNOUNCEMENT.

Baron de Coubertin States Nothing Will Be Done by the Supreme Organization During the Continuance of the War.

New York, July 4.—An authoritative statement relative to the Olympic games of 1916 scheduled for Berlin, has been made by Baron Pierre de Coubertin, president of the International Olympic committee. The executive of the international body has announced that no action regarding the Olympic games has been or will be taken by the supreme organization during the continuance of the European war.

He states that the members of the committee consider it improper at this time to think of the preparation for approaching fates and that they will take part in no discussions relative to such events. Baron de Coubertin takes occasion to deny that there is any truth in the reports that the Olympic games will be transferred to some nation not now engaged in conflict. The sole object of the committee at this time, he says, is to pursue its work of improving the physical development of young men.

That European sportsmen hold the idea that there will be no Olympic meet prior to 1920 is indicated by the insistence with which the Belgian committee, backed by the government, maintains the right of Belgians to the games of 1920. This meet was awarded to Antwerp and apparently the Belgian committee fears that in the event of 1915 passing without an Olympic meet, the 1920 contests will revert to Berlin. It is understood that pressure to clear up this point brought forth the statement by the Baron de Coubertin outlining the present position of the International Olympic committee.

One of the unique records of modern baseball is that attached to the name of Dad Meek, until recently pinch hitter for the Los Angeles Pacific Coast league team. Meek played 19 years in minor leagues, having been a member of fourteen clubs in as many leagues since his debut in 1896.

Although he fitted in as either catcher or first baseman, with fairly satisfactory results, his chief value lay in his ability to hit the ball in emergencies. Meek's record with the bat shows a grand average of .330 for nineteen years of play, with a high water mark of .419, made in 1897 while a member of the Port Huron club of the Michigan league. But for the fact that he was badly handicapped by his slowness afoot, Meek's big bat would have carried him into the big leagues years ago.

Independence Day will be celebrated in all parts of the country today by many sporting events of more than ordinary importance. Major and minor baseball leagues have double games scheduled, while gamblers, golfers, tennis players, yachtsmen, athletes and auto racers all have competitions in which to test their skill and endurance.

Boston, Philadelphia and Springfield hold local or sectional championship rowing regattas; Omaha will open its new auto speedway, Chicago stages the Central A. A. U. track and field games, Atlanta, Louisville, St. Louis and Utica are the scenes of state or sectional tennis title tournaments; Lake Michigan and Long Island Sound will witness yacht racing of various classes, and boxers, both amateur and professional, will appear in ring bouts throughout the east, south and west.

President Coppin of the Colonial league recently fined the members of the ew Bedford "Whales" for an odd exhibition of umpire basking. The players had protested violently against the umpire's decisions during the game without result. Late in the play, with ew Bedford at bat, the umpire, after calling "Batter up" several times, turned to the bench to ascertain the cause of the delay. He saw all the players of the club lined up on their knees in an attitude of prayer and it was explained that they were supplicating better umpiring. The matter was exceeding wrath and his report to the president of the league resulted in a heavy fine.

Late reports from Europe give some interesting account of the activities of several famous athletes and boxers in the war zones. Georges Carpentier, the French heavyweight champion, has passed his examination as an air pilot and is now a member of the French flying corps. Notwithstanding the numerous reports of his injury or capture, Carpentier has so far escaped unscathed during his apprentice service.

Other athletes of international fame who are with the colors include Pietro Dorando, the marathon runner, who gave Johnny Hayes a terrific race in the Olympic games mar-athon at London in 1908, now a member of the Italian automobile corps; Ernest Barry, England's world champion professional sculler, is serving with English troops; Marnigan and Thofal, two of the best-known French boxers, are convalescing from serious wounds received in battle, and the list might be continued almost indefinitely.

A complete baseball club composed entirely of brothers is the boast of Bode, Ia. The team, known as the Sorlein Brothers club, consists of nine brothers ranging in age from 17 to 30 years. Six of the nine are graduates of Luther college and the other boys are in attendance at that institution.

A Word About the Man Who Will Answer the Questions.

Most readers of the sporting page of this paper do not need an introduction to Alfred P. Lane, the man who is pointing a revolver straight between your eyes from the head of this column.

Those who follow the shooting sport at all will recall that Mr. Lane, then just bursting out of his teens, made a clean sweep of the pistol and revolver championships for Uncle Sam at the Olympic games, Stockholm, in 1912. In these competitions the young American was pitted against the short arms experts of the world and his triumph was heralded as one of the noteworthy achievements of shooting history.

Before going to the Olympic games, Mr. Lane had made three world's records and had won the indoor pistol championship of the United States. His shooting has kept up to championship standard without a relapse, the latest important winning with which he is credited having been the grand aggregate of the revolver ranges at the 1914 Sea Girt tournament.

Starting with a .22-caliber rifle, practicing in his father's cellar as a boy, Mr. Lane has grown up with a natural penchant for firearms of all sorts, being almost equally expert with pistol, revolver, rifle and shotgun. Along with this inclination toward "shooting irons," Mr. Lane has been able to carry an exceptional faculty for concentration and analysis, and a natural talent for things mechanical and scientific. He digs into shooting subjects and goes to the bottom. Not content with claims, he is continually conducting experiments with arms and ammunition to satisfy not only his own inquiring mind, but to answer intelligently the continual flow of questions that come to him as an authority from individuals, publications and many other sources.

There is no doubt that Mr. Lane is peculiarly adapted to handle queries that may come to him from readers of the Journal.

Mr. Lane Makes His Bow.
Interest in shooting in all of its branches has greatly increased of late. More trap shooting, rifle and revolver clubs are being organized and the public in general is making insistent demands upon authoritative sources for information covering the whole field of the sport.

Because of the number of questions which the sporting editor of the Journal has received, he has arranged with me to take care of a department on the subject.

This column is open to queries on any subject concerning the use of firearms for hunting or target work. If space permits, I will also throw the column open to discussions by readers, of various types of firearms and other things pertaining to the sport.

On questions regarding the abundance or scarcity of game in any particular locality, there will be some delay, as in most cases it will be necessary for me to write to some correspondent living in the section asked about.

Please make your questions as specific and definite as you possibly can. Such questions as "Which is the best revolver?" or "What rifle shall I use for big game hunting?" obviously cannot be answered. Give me all the details, such as the conditions under which the arm is to be used and just what you expect to be able to do with it. If your questions are of such a nature that a lengthy answer is necessary, send me a stamped, self-addressed envelope and I will write to you personally. All questions should, of course, be sent to me in care of this paper.

Unsigned communications will receive no attention, but the writer's name will be withheld if he desires.

From my experience with this line of work, I am led to anticipate that many questions will be asked which will be, in substance, identical, and therefore an answer to one such will answer all the rest.

The Dum Dum Bullet.
There is one question which I know will be among the first, and that is, "What is a dum-dum bullet?" So I'm going to answer that one right now.

A dum-dum bullet is, broadly speaking, any bullet designed to expand upon striking soft material such as flesh. The regular hunting cartridge used for big game is a dum-dum, because it has a soft lead nose sticking out of the front end of the bullet's metal jacket. When such a bullet strikes flesh it "mushrooms," i. e., the soft lead nose spreads out like the top of a mushroom, and the result is a big hole, which usually quickly kills the animal struck. Cartridges for use in war have sharp-pointed bullets and are supposed to drill a neat little hole, which, if not perforating a vital part, will heal quickly. The only trouble is, pointed bullets frequently act erratically and instead of going straight through, they tip and tumble end over end and tear a hole just like one made by a dum-dum. This peculiar phenomenon occurs mostly at the shorter ranges and is perhaps the cause of the accusations regarding the use of dum-dums by both sides in the present European trouble.

Now hustle along with your questions.

COUNTY AGENTS WANTED—The Meyers Auto Tire Safety Valve stops the trouble—the demand for new tires. We're talking to you, now. We may not prove popular with tire manufacturers, but our valve will fit anybody's tire. You want the tire to last. You may have the most expensive car on the market, but when your tires go wrong, joy ceases. Hundreds of inventions are for betterment and pleasure of motoring, but the Meyers Auto Tire Safety Valve is the first practical one for regulation of pressure. It means exactly to an auto what a safety valve means to a locomotive, threshing engine, or any other container of high fluid-pressure. The principle, the valve, the material and the results are the same. It takes care of over-inflation by carelessness in pumping up, and high pressure from heat and friction. It prolongs the life of new tires and insures the old ones. It saves you time, money and patience and does more toward reducing your upkeep than any other invention of the automobile age. Exclusive county contracts let to wide-awake men. For information address J. P. Coley, Streetor, Illinois. 7-4-61

FOREIGN CORRESPONDENCE
By The Associated Press.)

Pekin, July 4.—(Correspondence of the Associated Press.) No man in China typifies the modern spirit of the country like Chang Chien, minister of agriculture and commerce, who is another Ben Franklin in his practical philanthropy. His one idea is to put his country on a sound economic and social basis by improving the land.

Mr. Chang was born 62 years ago. His father was a wealthy landowner of Hammen, a country town in Kiangsu province, near the mouth of the Yangtze river, a great cotton producing district. As a boy he saw the horrors of the Taping rebellion, which stirred him to help his country to better things. He also had before him the example of his parents, who were noted for their kindness and charity to the poor peasantry.

In the old regime the gateway to success in political life lay in scholarship and Chang passed the highest in his province and became noted in China for his learning. But he did not bury himself in books. On the contrary, he devoted all his energy to founding and maintaining elementary, agricultural and technical schools, as well as charitable institutions. Furthermore, he was responsible for increased production in his province, both of crops and factories. Land reclamation, fish hatcheries and the improvement of waterways were also on his program.

Scant encouragement was given to work of this sort under the empire. But Chang obtained free scope for ideas on obtaining the agricultural portfolio from the republic two years.

A system of normal schools, a school of hydrography, the technical training of Chinese students abroad, a school of forestry with a forest management co-operation between the different parts of the country and land reforms form part of China's debt to Minister Chang.

Paris, July 4.—(Correspondence of the Associated Press.)—More than 15,000,000 of the 16,500,000 tons of iron ore produced annually in France, worth about $7,000,000 francs, comes from the department of the Meurthe and Moselle, occupied by the Germans. Three and a half million tons of the 4,500,000 tons of pig iron produced in France annually also comes from those regions, and 2,125,000,000 of the 3,125,000 tons annual production of steel. Seventy-four per cent of the French iron industries, therefore, are immobilized.

A great deal of the information concerning the fate of the French industries behind the German lines is anonymous. Privately, however, thereport that every machine that can be utilized in Germany has been taken, as well as all the money and products of the occupied regions has been verified by reliable manufacturers who have means of communication that they are careful not to reveal. The usual German system was applied to the distribution of the machines. A stock company of German manufacturers managed this part of the economic war. This company sent engineers to Belgium and northern France to select such machines as might be worth taking. These were shipped to Cologne and a complete catalogue was printed and sent to German manufacturers offering them at prices ranging from 50 per cent of their value up. In this way German factories making shells for the army were able to increase their lathe equipment on good terms. The stock company took 15 per cent commission on the sale and the real owner received a requisition payable sometimes by the Reichsbank, more often by the Bank of France, six months after the conclusion of the war. The requisition price is generally based on the cost price, less depreciation of 10 per cent a year, with a minimum value of 50 per cent.

London, July 4.—The annual report of the board of education says it is not yet possible to estimate the full effect of the war on the schools, but it has depleted the teaching staffs, decreased the number of students and caused inconvenience by the use of school buildings for military purposes.

About 30 per cent of the attendance of 24 universities and colleges in England and Wales has been diverted to the military services. In the men's training college for elementary teachers, 645 out of 1,420 joined the colors. At the Royal College of Art 39 out of 152 students left for the same reason. Other institutions seem to show about the same proportion.

According to returns made in April, 178 elementary schools, 18 secondary schools, 14 technical and two training colleges were then occupied by soldiers. This is but a small part of the buildings used temporarily during the movements of troops.

In most cases school keeps, even if the building is used as a barracks, and other premises are found.

Rotterdam, Netherlands, July 4.—(Correspondence of the Associated Press.)—For the first time in history the Dutch housewife is today face to face with a servant problem. With 10 per cent of the male population of the country called to the colors, the girl who does not wish to be a servant can very readily find well paid work as a clerk or factory hand, or in an office or even on the farm. Many are doing so, and it is now rare to see in the Dutch papers the customary form of advertisement for a place in domestic service.

Following the Dutch custom, domestic servants are employed by the year at yearly fixed wages, and in case of dissatisfaction on either side a rupture of the contract can only take place quarterly, on the first of February, May, August or November.

Notice by either party must be given at the very least three months in advance, and runs for full three months from the next following term date. Thus, to discharge an ill-tempered or incompetent girl the day after she has come to work requires six months toleration of her or the payment of six months wages. The wages however, are not high, though the war and the consequent servant famine is tending to raise them. A cook ordinarily receives $160 per year, with all her food and washing paid, and one cent as commission on every dollar's worth of household supplies purchased, which the cook collects from the tradesmen.

A good housemaid receives $80 per year, all found, with the added hope of falling heir to some of her mistress' clothes. A footman or houseboy receives $140 per year, also all found. The housewife must, in addition, pay workmen's compensation insurance.

The tipping system is the curse of domestic service in the Netherlands. In addition to the cook's commission, each servant, at the New Year and All Saints Day receives 5 gulden on every hundred of yearly wage, or $1 on every $20. But these are not all, nor indeed the most important tips in a Dutch house. Every guest invited to dinner is expected to leave a florin (40 cents) with the butler on departing. All receipts from this source, as well as from an equally inexorable tax placed upon guests stopping in the house, go into a common pot under the guardianship of the butler, to be distributed at the end of the quarter among all the servants, in the proportion of their yearly wages.

At a recent meeting of the Netherlands Association of Housewives, Miss G. M. Van Oorschot, assistant director of the Amsterdam Municipal Labor Exchange, made a spirited and frank talk upon existing conditions in domestic service in the Netherlands.

"The servant problem," said Miss Van Oorschot, "is rightfully an international question which, until now, has received altogether too little serious attention. The principal trouble is that the relationship between the housewife and her domestic employees is regarded rather as a patriarchal one than as one of pure business, with social and economic aspects far outweighing the purely personal considerations. Many a girl today has left domestic service for factory or shop work solely because her personal freedom has been abridged by the terms of her employment and by the intransigence of her employer. The smallest matters, which may seem to have no fundamental significance, are sufficient to make a girl dissatisfied. Many girls, for example, object to wearing caps as a mark of service, or to being addressed as 'servants.'

MUST PREPARE FOR FOREIGN TRADE

CANNOT BE SECURED BY ANY METHODS EXCEPT EFFICIENT
ONES.

Vice Chairman of Federal Trade Commission Compares Business Organization in This Country With That Abroad—Some Changes Needed.

(By Edward N. Hurley, Vice Chairman of the Federal Trade Commission before the Alumni Association, Urbana, June 15, 1915.)

After describing the field of choice for a college graduate, Mr.
Hurley proceeded to describe the preparation needed for foreign carers. "It is fifteen years," said
Mr. Hurley, "since a great American declared that the era of exclu-siveness had passed, but as a nation we have made little preparation for effective participation in world trade.

"Unless as a nation we are prepared relentlessly to apply the test of efficiency to our ventures in foreign trade, we might as well give up the idea of being a great factor.
This is no light task. It involves a complete revision and intensification of our habits of business life. We must change our happy-go-lucky methods before they become unhappy-go-lucky.

"Please remember that we have,
for the most part, been a nation of pioneers and that our commercial system has been largely developed to serve the needs of a growing country rather than to exist by barter with our neighbors. Entry into real world trade requires a development of the commercial or merchandizing spirit to an extent hitherto unknown and will compel an exactitude of method altogether new. Our prejudice against letting our sons study bookkeeping for fear they may be bookkeepers all their lives has gone so far that our boys are not inclined to devote any time to this most important subject, with the result that today all the most important public accounting firms employ men educated and trained in England, Scotland and Germany.

"Various ways have been suggested as to how our boys should start to learn bookkeeping. We all know that our early impressions are lasting ones and if the country school teacher will start to instruct the boys, first, to count the stock of all kinds on their fathers' farms; second, to count the number of implements and later find out the cost of purchase and its present value, this would gradually get the boy interested in the every day problems and would start a foundation and a desire to ascertain facts which will be most helpful to him in learning
the principles of inventory, values, etc., and which will help him to succeed more than any other one thing that he may learn.

"Writing a telegram of ten or fifty words would seem to be a very simple matter, but how many college men that go into business can do it? It is the best evidence, however, that if a man can write a telegram that is concise, clear and the points mentioned fully covered that he can write a good business letter. The special points that college men who contemplate a business career should pay particular attention are, that he should know the every day principles of bookkeeping, be able to read a balance sheet, know how to figure and obtain actual costs and also know and be able to apply his English studies to every day practice. The employer of a college man naturally expects him to be a good English scholar and if he has neglected his English he is seriously handicapped and not competent to write a good business letter, which is now recognized as being most essential to a successful business career.

In this country today many of our merchants and manufacturers are selling goods and do not know what they actually cost to produce, with the result that they are cutting prices and demoralizing the industry that they are in. It is this practice that has helped to cause such a general demoralization of industrial concerns.

"One of the reasons why the German, English and French have succeeded in getting the large contracts to furnish the South American and other countries with most of their electrical material and other manufactured goods is because the Europeans have been engaged in their respective businesses for a number of years, their plants are well organized and they are most thorough in arriving at the actual cost of producing their goods, as well as the cost of selling them. Having this information almost at their finger tips, whenever an order is to be placed in any foreign country, they absolutely know what quotations to make. The American manufacturer has been busy at home making a substantial profit on a small gross business and has been rather indifferent about increasing it so long as his profits were reasonably large.

"If we paid more attention to the actual cost of producing our goods and the cost of selling them, put our house in order, get at the real facts regarding the cost of our products, establish an up-to-date method of accounting, charge off liberally for depreciation and present balance sheets to our banks in accordance with good business practice, we would be in a position to compete with any country in the world, in any market of the world."

ASSISTANT SECRETARY

partment at the naval hospital follow-

FLOWERS IN HOME BRING CHEERFULNESS

BRIGHTNESS ADDS MUCH TO THE WHOLE ATMOSPHERE.

Popular Varieties Are Often Considered Easy to Grow—Special Attention to Questions of Soil and Ventilation Required for Best Results.

(By A. G. Hecht, Department of Horticulture, University of Illinois.)

Flowers have been grown in the home for centuries, but never have they been grown so extensively as now. Nearly every home is supplied with at least a few plants; seldom can one enter a home and not see a group in the dining or living room and one on a pedestal in the hall or parlor. The cheerful atmosphere which flowers produce makes it worth while to grow them, and the pleasure derived from their care is also worth a great deal. Owing to their popularity, flowers are often considered easy to grow, but people who have success with them know that they require special care and attention for their best development.

In order to obtain the best development plants must have plenty of light, a fairly even temperature and the proper amount of moisture.
Ordinarily in the average home growing plants do not receive the proper amount of light, with the result that they become tall, weak and straggling, for only by the aid of sunlight are the leaves able to manufacture the food material needed for the plant's development. Most plants do best in direct sunlight, but some, such as ferns and palms, do better a short distance away from the window. Plants should be turned occasionally to secure a symmetrical growth, especially when exposed to light coming from only one direction. Unless this is done they will become one-sided, as all of the leaves turn toward the source of light.

An even temperature is perhaps as important to plants as light. To secure the best growth the temperature must be within certain limits;
a temperature varying to a considerable extent will cause an improper development. The temperature at which plants grow at their best is called the optimum temperature.
When it goes below this point the plants become short and stunted, due to a retarding of growth, and when above they become drawn, due to a forcing of growth. Most house plants require a temperature of from 65 to 70 degrees during the day and from 55 to 60 degrees at night. Some, such as the araucar-ias, primroses and azaleas will do better in a temperature from 10 to 15 degrees lower, while others, such as ferns and palms, do best in a temperature that is about 5 degrees higher.

Plants may have plenty of light
and the temperature may be correct, but if they are not supplied with the proper amount of moisture it is still impossible to grow them successfully. Improper watering is perhaps the greatest cause of failure in the growing of plants in the home. An over abundance or an insufficient supply will affect the plants in much the same way. When too much water is supplied the soil remains saturated, the air is excluded, the roots decay and the leaves turn yellow and drop. Lack of water will affect the plant in a similar manner, except that in this case the absorbing roots dry up instead of decaying. The amount of water to be supplied depends upon the character of the soil, the amount of foliage and the size of the root system. Plants should never be watered unless they are moderately dry, and then they should be watered thoroughly. The best way to tell when a soil is dry is to rub some of it between the fingers. If it crumbles it is dry enough for a thorough watering. Another way is to tap the pot, and if it gives out a hollow sound it is an indication that the soil is dry.

The soil for most plants should be fairly rich in plant food. A good soil to which has been added from 1-4 to 1-3 as much manure and a little sand, will make an excellent potting medium for most plants grown in the home. Some, as ferns, require a soil containing more humus, which may be added in the form of peat or leaf mold. Almost any mixture or soil can be secured from a florist, and as a rule better results may be obtained by buying prepared soil than by using home soil obtained in this way is not very expensive and one has the satisfaction of knowing that it is good.

The food material that is in the soil will eventually be used up by the plants, and in order to keep them in a good growing condition it is essential that some fertilizer that is quickly available be added from time to time. There are a large number of prepared plant foods
containing the essential elements, on the market. These fertilizers are put up in small cans and may be secured at almost any seed store or flower shop. The directions for their use accompany the packages and should be followed closely. It is better to apply fertilizers in small quantities and at short intervals, rather than in large quantities at longer intervals.

In the selection of plants particular pains must be taken to choose such as they are better able to withstand unfavorable house conditions,
such as dust, dry air and gases.
Those selected should be suited to the amount of light received and to the temperature maintained.
Plants suitable for the home may be grouped under two heads, foliage plants, or those grown only for their leaves, and flowering plants, or those grown only for their flowers, or for

JOHN MINTER BORN ON NATION'S BIRTHDAY

WELL KNOWN RESIDENT SEVENTY-THREE YEARS OLD YESTERDAY.

Born in Germany He Came to the U. S. with His Parents When a Child—Had Thrilling Experiences in War of Rebellion.

July 4, 1842, in Wittenberg, Germany, in the home of a stone mason named Minter a little son whom they named John appeared. He was pretty much like other boys as he grew older and at the age of eleven years he was called to accompany his parents to the United States. The family landed in New Orleans and in three months the father succumbed to the awful scourge of yellow fever, leaving the mother with her little boys to fight the battle of life as best she could. They made their way to this vicinity and the good mother had the proud satisfaction of seeing her sons grow up to be a credit to her before her death in 1886.

John worked awhile for Squire Smith and then three years for Abram Coffman. Then he tried Buckhorn and worked for George Armistage and for Joshua Crain three years and later successfully for George Kurtz, Abe Smith and Isaac Tindall. In July 1862 he enlisted in Battery F, 1st Illinois Light Artillery and served with that organization till it was fearfully used up by strenuous service when it was consolidated with Battery A from Chicago at which place he was mustered out in July, 1865. The battery took part in 28 engagements and had a truly strenuous time which Mr. Minter speaks modestly avoiding notoriety. Urged for a story of some of his experiences he mentioned two engagements. At the battle of Jonesboro, Gen. Osterhaus rode up to the captain of the battery and remarking that a masked gun of the rebels was doing much execution asked for the best gunner in the battery.

The captain replied his men were all good but ordered out the gun with which Mr. Minter was connected. After a while a small puff of smoke from a thicket in the distance indicated the place to be hit and John pointed his piece that way and hit the upper part of the mask and a second shot sent the gun tumbling over backward. With language much more forcible than elegant the doughty German officer declared it was simply "miraculous" and asked the young gunner where he got his skill and the reply was by plowing long rows of corn.

Battery Lost Heavily. Among some of the localities in which the battery served were the campaign at Atlanta, Vicksburg and then after Johnson. Then at Knoxville to help Burnside; Missionary Ridge and the second battle of Chattanooga; under "Pan" Thomas at Nashville and elsewhere. These are but a few of the places in which the battery served for it had three years of strenuous service. At Atlanta some of the most stubborn fighting was done. There the battery lost 62 horses and 27 men. They were exposed to rebel sharpshooters in addition to all else and many a brave fellow went down.

When the battery reached the place assigned it the sergeant in charge asked for volunteers to clear away the brush in front to make a place for the guns. Mr. Minter was one of the volunteers and the rebels soon had their range and he says the scorching bullets cut off about as many sticks as the axes of the union men.

Next day the battle surged back and forth with desperate stubbornness and fearful execution. The embrasure erected for Minter's gun was destroyed and they had to run the piece out into the open to fire it and the rebel sharpshooters got in their work in a fearful manner. At last Mr. Minter and John Blair from the vicinity of Chapin were the only ones left at their gun. That July day was truly one of carnage. The piece had been fired 58 times and Mr. Minter says the rebel dead were piled up like a butts after a big, successful hunt. As the two were standing by the gun Gen. McPherson rode up and ordered the piece behind the embankment as there were none to work it. The general also asked for a drink of water which was supplied from Minter's canteen and then in response to the order Minter said he would give the Johnnies a parting shot. At that moment a rebel bullet struck poor Blair in the knee making a fearful wound and gangrene setting in he died.

Gen. McPherson's Death. The last shot was fired at a rebel battery of light artillery and it resulted in the death of three horses and the rider of the leader. The poor fellow was sent whirling over by the terrible discharge. In half an hour after taking the drink from Mr. Minter Gen. McPherson went down by a rebel bullet. He was riding along the line as he supposed of the 16th and 17th corps but they had not joined and while between he was exposed to rebel fire and killed. Mr. Minter says the general was a brave man and much liked by the men. Young Minter seemed to have a charmed life for he says there were five bullets holes in his clothes and but one insignificant scratch on his leg. At another time in the battle a rebel gunner got their range and began to fire. Minter saw what was coming and shouted to his comrades to drop down in the same direction from which the balls would come. He did so but another man failed.

to do so lying at right angle to Mr. Minter. The latter escaped though their feet touched while the other man fared badly. A shot took off his legs landing one foot in a tree several rods distant. There were many the engagements but Mr. Minter is a man not given to telling his experiences and so the rest of the story will have to be left untold.

After leaving the army he returned home having been mustered out in Chicago and naturally took to the soil again which he remained with for several years when he removed to the city and engaged in various occupations, for awhile following the trade of cooper. He tried the shoe business with his brother Matthew but didn't like anything so confining.

Six years he spent in Colorado where he served as county commissioner and filled various offices. Though past three score and ten he is yet hale and hearty and seems likely to be with his friends and family for many years to come.

PARK SUNDAY NIGHT SERVICES ARE BEGUN

First of Series Was Held Sunday—Short Address Given by Rev. Howard French.

The first of the series of open air Sunday meetings in Central Park was well attended last evening. The music was very good. It was led by Rev. G. W. Flagg with Miss Inez Huckleby at the organ playing most capably. Rev. Howard French read the 33d psalm and addressed the gathering saying in part:

"We celebrate today the birthday of National Independence. For some time previous to July 4th several of the colonies had thought much of independence but it was not until June that R. H. Lee of Virginia offered in the continental congress a resolution declaring that these colonies should be free and independent. His motion was seconded by John Adams but action was not taken at the time and when it was taken a committee was appointed to prepare a suitable declaration of independence. It is generally understood that Thomas Jefferson of that committee prepared most of the document and it was adopted the fourth of the following July by all the delegates except those from New York who signed later.

The declaration was on parchment which was to be seen till 1894 when it was placed in a safe to prevent it from fading though there are accurate facsimiles to be seen in many places.

"Of what use was the declaration and why so much stress laid upon it? It didn't make the country free for that took seven years of warfare. The declaration showed an avowed purpose on the part of the colonies and bound them together in a common tie of brotherhood and unity and as Benjamin Franklin said, 'If we do not hang together we shall hang separately.' The declaration strengthened the army and showed the world where the colonies stood. It helped other nations and did much to foster independence in France. Is there any need of a declaration today? Men don't like to fight and it needs a strong declaration to make them come out in the open.

"An open declaration, not in secrecy, shows the world where one stands. It is well for the christian today before the world that he is a follower of the Redeemer and so it is good to have an organization to which men may belong and which requires of its members an open declaration before the world. Every pledge is an effort to break the fetters which bind our souls. Let us make a public confession and take a stand for righteousness.

CORN FIELD SAVES TRAIN.

Washington, July 4.—Fifteen were hurt, one seriously, when an east-bound train on the Waynesburg and Washington road was dived twelve miles from here. Two cars turned over and went into a corn field, the soft nature of the earth in which they landed being responsible for the absence of more numerous injuries and the loss of many lives.

Scores were penned in the cars and were rescued only after several hours' work, but except Mrs. William Thompson of Pittsburgh, none are seriously hurt.

Mrs. Thompson, who was hurled through a window, is in a local hospital in a serious condition from loss of blood.

CHRISTIAN MISSIONARY SOCIETY WILL HOLD MEETING IN BLOOMINGTON

Annual Convention of Illinois Organization Will Take Place Sept. 20-23—Notable Speakers on Program.

The Illinois Christian Missionary societies will hold their annual convention Sept. 20-23 in Bloomington. These societies include all of the leading christian churches of the state and include 715 in number showing a membership of 111,575 in 1914. It is expected that more than one thousand delegates will be in attendance.

Rev. W. G. McColley of Shelbyville, formerly of Normal, is the president of the societies and will deliver an address at the conference. Some notable speakers are on the program and three men of national fame from out of the state are to be heard at the convention.

Dr. Peter Ainslie of Baltimore will deliver two addresses. Dr. Ainslie has been a very prominent figure in the national peace movement and was sent to England as one of the three men to talk over the question of church union, when the Protestants churches of the world were considering the question of uniting.

Dr. Walter Alharn of Drake university at Des Moines will deliver one address. Dr. Alharn is considered by many to be the clearest exponent of religious subjects before the American people. He has written many books on various religious subjects and these have always found a place in the libraries of religious readers.

Mr. Stephen J. Corey of Cincinnati will also be here to speak before the convention. Mr. Corey has just returned from a trip around the world, where he had made a special study of the missionary needs and will be prepared to give an expert account of the needs of the foreign fields.

There are four very interesting departments of the church whose work will be discussed and plans made for more efficient work. The four departments are: The Woman's Missionary society, the Illinois Christian Missionary society, the Sunday school work and the Christian Educational society.

BASEBALL GAME DECLARED OFF.

Franklin Team Fails to Show up for Sunday Contest.

The baseball game between Franklin and the Eagles scheduled for Sunday afternoon was declared off at the eleventh hour. The Eagles' manager, A. A. McCollister, received word from the Franklin team shortly after noon that they could not get here. Mr. McCollister had held off cancelling the game as long as possible and had expected to play.

The action of the Franklin team in sending word that they could not get here was unexpected. It is customary for a visiting team to come regardless of conditions unless the local team sends them word not to come. While it rained here early Sunday morning, the clouds began to break away about 11 o'clock and by 1 o'clock the sun was shining and it was an ideal day for a game. It is unfortunate that the Franklin team did not call up the local management and hold themselves in readiness to come if they found weather conditions good. There no doubt would have been a large crowd out to the game. Weather permitting the Franklin team will be here this afternoon and will play the Eagles.

THIRTY-SEVEN PEOPLE IN THE MORGAN COUNTY HOME

Statistics Show Some Interesting Figures Relative to the Almshouses of Illinois.

According to the figures of Supt. Frank Todd of the Morgan County farm there are thirty-seven inmates in the home. In the entire state there are 7,783 of whom 6,166 were men and 1,617 were women, or four times as many men as women.

The county with the smallest population is one with one woman and one man. Next comes Hamilton, Henderson and Johnson, with three each. Twenty counties have ten or less in their almshouses. Outside of Cook county the largest population is found in La Salle county, with 225 men and 55 women. St. Clair county comes next with 212 men and 30 women. Peoria county is third with 197 men and 25 women. Sangamon county has 188 men and 27 women. Kane has 121 men and 35 women; Madison 136 men and 7 women and McLean county 100 men and 14 women. Cook county, the largest has 3,015 men and 696 women.

It is found that there are 135 boys and 118 girls, or 253 children under ten years of age; there are twenty-four veterans of the civil war; nineteen widows of veterans of the civil war; 137 of the inmates who at one time or another in their lives were legally declared insane. These people have either been discharged from a state hospital or have escaped from a state hospital and later on drifted into an almshouse, where the county authorities have made no effort to have them returned to a state hospital, as the law contemplates.

MRS. LANDRETH ENDS LIFE WITH POSION

COMMITTS SUICIDE BY DRINKING LEWIS LYE.

Second Attempt Sunday Evening Proves Fatal—Swallows Lye After Sending Sister on Errand—Physicians Work to Save Her Life

Mrs. Edward Landreth committed suicide at the family home, 1123 West Lafayette avenue Sunday evening by drinking about half a can of Lewis' lye. She drank the lye about 8 o'clock. Dr. W. P. Duncan and Dr. H. C. Woltman were summoned and though every effort was made to save her life she died at 10:20 o'clock.

First Attempt Two Weeks Ago.
... was Mrs. Landreth's second attempt to commit suicide, having shot herself in the head with a .22 calibre revolver on June 22. Since that time she has been at Passavant hospital. Her husband took her home Sunday at noon. He said that she was very weak from the effects of her other attempt on her life and seemed very melancholy.

No one knows just when Mrs. Landreth took the lye. Mr. Landreth had gotten Mrs. Ada McLean, his wife's sister, to stay with her, and went down town to run his automobile. Mrs. McLean and Mrs. Landreth were in the house and the son, Russell, was out in the front yard. Mrs. Landreth told Mrs. McLean to go out and see if the boy had fed the chickens. She started out and before she reached the barn she heard Mrs. Landreth screaming. She ran back and found her in great agony. She called help and the police station was telephoned to. Chief Davis found Landreth at Joseph Benson's lunch room where he had gone to see if there was any calls for him.

Troubles Made Death Desired.
Some one had called Dr. H. C. Woltman and Mr. Landreth went for Dr. W. P. Duncan. When they arrived at the house the neighbors had Mrs. Landreth in the yard. The physicians were able to get the lye from her stomach but found her throat badly burned.

When Mrs. Landreth attempted to kill herself the first time she left a note for her husband. It was shown to a reporter for the Journal Sunday evening. It is written on a large piece of card board. In this note she refers to the trouble in which her youngest son had become involved and says trouble had driven her to seek death. No name is signed, the last words of the note being goodbye.

IT WILL BE A BIG SURPRISE the car that William Newman will tell about one day this week. Wait and read.

MORTUARY

Schmitt.

After an illness of several months, of colitis, being bedfast for the past five weeks, Leonard M. Schmitt, one of Quincy's prominent residents, and a well known Catholic, passed into the last long slumber at 9 o'clock Friday night. His death was a great shock to his friends, who, although they knew that he was ill, did not know that death was so near. He had lived here for many years and he numbered his friends by the score.

Decedent was born in Quincy March 24, 1848, and was 67 years old when death claimed him. He had spent all of his life here and for 21 years was the owner of a drug store at 629 Hampshire street, retiring from active life five years ago. He took a leading part in the building of the Knights of Columbus Home, and his death robs this prominent Catholic organization of one of its best members. The Catholic Knights of America, St. Nicholas branch, W. C. U., and St. Francis claimed him as a member also.

He was the son of Leonard and Margaret Schmitt, and was married to Miss Frances Koenig, formerly of Jacksonville, who survives him. Mr. Schmitt was a Quincey in every sense of the word and was always interested in the city's advancement and welfare and will be greatly missed.

Surviving Mr. Schmitt besides his widow, are one son, Ray, of this city, and two daughters, Mrs. Ed. Moller of this city and Mrs. William C. Wolters of Peoria. There are also two grandchildren; one brother, Nick, of St. Louis; and four sisters, Mrs. Xavier Dehner and Mrs. Joe Jacoby of this city, Mrs. J. Jansen of St. Louis and Sister Hyacinth of St. Elizabeth hospital, Covington, Ky.

Edelbrock.
Mrs. Addie Edelbrock died last night at 11:30 at the family residence in Chapin. An obituary will appear in Wednesday's Journal.

Miller.
Samuel Miller, a pioneer resident of Virginia, was buried Sunday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, funeral services being held in the Baptist church, in charge of Rev. Ben F. Johnson of Ashland. Interment was made in Walnut Ridge cemetery.

Mr. Miller was 79 years of age and was a veteran of the civil war. He served in Company C, 104th regiment Illinois infantry. He is survived by his widow, one son, the Rev. Thomas Miller, and four daughters, Mrs. Albert Perrin, Bearstown; Mrs. Ralph Nix, Denver, Colo.; Mrs. Carrie Thompson of this city and Mrs. Matie Smith of Virginia.
